Price Speaking at the Free Academy.—A few facts may not be amiss of this time relative to the Price Speaking at the Free Academy. In order that the judges may not fall into the error of those of last year, it is proposed that the price Dr. Charles King, the Hon. George Bancroft, Dr. Tyng, Wm. R. Astor, & Co., and Charles M. Lenox, Esq., the latter three only were present who could be considered as having the best interests at heart, what they were to decide upon, at that time was to have been given for the greatest excell in speaking. There was a wonderful discrepancy in the statements of the judges. William C. Brewster, Dr. Tyng, Dr. King, & Dr. T. F. Peterson, who it is believed, gave the highest marks, while it was decided that the speaker was not so good as he was. It was decided that the speaker was not good enough to be admitted to the Free Academy, and that he was most decidedly in favor of H. N. Babcock, Jr., that there was no competition between him and Mr. Raymond, only that the former was more popular. The course of study which the speaker followed, was the same as that of Mr. Babcock, while Falcock was a member of the senior class and had taken the two previous years, and under these circumstances the price was awarded to Mr. Raymond. Consideration was given to the fact that Mr. Babcock had made a speech which was far from being a failure in its style. But the most remarkable reason was that of Charles M. Lenox, Esq., who stated that he was in favor of Mr. Raymond, because he was a man of great literary skill, but had not made a speech, and came out well in all the examinations and trials. He was also in favor of Mr. Babcock, Jr., as the same as acknowledging that Babcock spoke without stamping or rattling from beginning to end.

And lastly, will any member of the family, say of the officers of the Free Academy, come down to the Auditor, to let the public know why it is that a highly intelligent and respectable audience were not informed on the same evening when the price was awarded, according to the custom of all former occasions? Let that question be asked if it can ever be answered.
